Recognized registries do not guarantee acceptance for AKC registration. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The dog is currently registered with NAMASCUSA, SDRS, IHDA, UKC, NSDR, MASCA, ASDR or IMASC as a Miniature Australian Shepherd or Toy Australian Shepherd. The dog has an Individual Dog Registration Application (puppy paper) issued from a litter registered with NAMASCUSA, SDRS, IHDA, UKC, ASDR, MASCA, or IMASC. The dog has an NAMASCUSA Individual Dog Registration Application and was whelped prior to January 1, 2014.

The requested name is limited to 36 characters (including spaces). You will not receive a NAMASCUSA/SDRS registration certificate. For all applicant dogs, except those dogs having NAMASCUSA/SDRS, IHDA issued puppy papers, provide a 3-generation pedigree showing the parents, grandparents, and great-grandparents, complete with all registered names and registration numbers, or as much of a 3-generation pedigree as is known, if possible. Both parents of the applicant dog must have registration with a recognized registry as listed above. Copies of registration certificates and/or certified pedigrees from one of the registries listed above may be required for verification of dogs within the 3-generation pedigree if SDRS does not currently have this information available. Without proper verification of 3 generations the applicant dog will not be considered 3 generation verified. For information on the pedigree verification process and the impact of having less than 3 generations go to next page.
Foreign Born Dogs	If your dog is foreign born, it must also meet the above requirements. You will submit the application and a copy of the current registration certificate or puppy paper. Write Foreign Pedigree on the top of the application. A pedigree will be issued with the information that can be verified. Your dog must have a microchip. Pedigree Verification Process

Verification of generations is done using copies of registration certificates and/or certified pedigrees issued by acceptable registries as listed above. In some instances, SDRS may already have these documents and therefore some of the dogs in a pedigree may already be verified. However, in many instances SDRS does not have any information on dogs within a pedigree, especially if the dog is registered with another registry. SDRS does not have access to other registries' databases. Therefore, the only way verification can occur is to have an official document, as described above, to verify not only a dog's registered name and registration number but to also verify that dog's connection (parent, grandparent, or great-grandparent) to your dog.

Impact of having less than 3 generations

Dogs that have fewer than three generations verified will remain in FSS.

Dogs enrolling in AKC/FSS may have 1, 2 or 3 generations verified in their pedigree. The generations start with the parents of the dog enrolling. A 1-generation dog will have both parents listed on their registration. Dogs with information missing from their three-generation pedigree will be enrolled in AKC/FSS with fewer than 3 generations verified. These dogs are eligible to participate in all companion and performance events and may be used in a breeding program if breeding rights have been given. However, these dogs cannot participate in the conformation show ring and therefore cannot earn conformation titles. Their offspring can move to full recognition once three generations of pedigree has been established.

Dogs with three generations verified will be fully recognized.
